

Throw Some Snow

Jo ran to the window. "It's snowing! Come quickly Tim, it's snowing!" shouted Jo.

Throw Some Snow

The children grabbed their winter coats and they both ran outside. "This is the most snow I have ever seen," said Tim. The snow was piling up thick.

Throw Some Snow

"Look at how the snowflakes float," said Tim. "Can we make a snowman?" said Jo.

Throw Some Snow

"First, we need to throw some snow!" said Tim. Tim threw a snowball at Jo. Thwack. It burst open all over her face. She was covered head to toe in snow. "Now, there's a snowman," laughs Tim.

Throw Some Snow

"I will get you back when you least expect it," grins Jo. "Come on, give me a tow on the sled," she said.

Throw Some Snow

"Here goes," said Tim. The sled slides through the snow, like a boat on water. Thwump. The kids land in a heap. They are covered in snow again.

Throw Some Snow

Jo blows some snow into Tim's face. "Now, there's a snowman," laughs Jo.

Throw Some Snow