

Make a Stew

“Let’s make a vegetable stew,” said Mrs Brown.
“We have potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, peas,
and onions in the garden,” she said.

Mr Brown knew not to argue. When Mrs
Brown wants to cook a vegetable stew,
nothing will slow her down.

He went to the garden to collect the vegetables.
He came back with loads of vegetables.

“I need to use my new huge stewing pot,” she said. This was Mr Brown’s cue to get the pot.
He went to collect the pot. “Here it is,” he said.

“The pot is so beautiful. Too good for a stew,” he said. “It’s perfect. When I tap it with my spoon it makes a beautiful tune. A tune for a stew,” she said.

Mr Brown cubed the vegetables. Mrs Brown tapped a tune while they cooked the stew.

“I knew this would be the best stew,” said Mrs Brown. Mr Brown took a sip. “Yes, dear. I think we forgot something. Next time, maybe we can add a bit of salt to the stew?” said Mr Brown.
