“Tab, you are so interesting to me,” said Pat.
Tab keeps napping and purring in her sleep.
“Cat napping all day long,” smiles Pat.

Pat looks outside her bedroom window. The sun is shining and the warm light is flowing into her bedroom. She gets out of bed.

“Cats have evolved to sleep for long periods in the day. Wild cats sleep to conserve energy for hunting. House cats still have the instinct to sleep and prepare for the hunt,” she read.

Pat finds her book about animals. She finds the page about cats. "Why do cats sleep so much? Do you want to find out more about yourself?" she asks.

"Good morning, Tab. What shall we do today?" said Pat. Tab, the cat, is napping on Pat's bed. Tab purrs in her sleep.

"Tab, are you sleeping? Are you dreaming?" Pat said. Tab snuggles her head into the pillows. She keeps purring away softly.

"I wonder what it would be like to be a cat," said Pat. "Napping and day dreaming all day long," she said to herself.
