

Hopped, Skipped and Jumped

“Wait up!” yelled Pip. Kip, her dog, ran quickly ahead to the park. As Kip raced off, Pip giggled to herself. “Kip always does this,” she said.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

When Pip finally arrived at the park, she could see what Kip was doing. Kip sniffed the grass, frantically. Kip hopped up and down with excitement, like a spring lamb.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

Kip followed a trail that led down a hill, to a pond. Pip followed Kip, close behind.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

At the pond, there were big lily pads that floated like ballerinas on top. The lily pads bloomed with bright, pink lilies.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

Kip kept sniffing and sniffing. “What is it, Kip?” asked Pip. All of a sudden, something green hopped into the pond, with a big splash. Kip barked and barked.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

“It’s a frog, just a frog,” said Pip. Kip skipped, hopped and jumped into the pond. There was a very big splash. Pip got drenched.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

The frog kicked its legs and flipped in the water. Kip kicked and flipped in the water. “Don’t look at me, Kip. I’m not jumping in!” laughed Pip.

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

Hopped, Skipped and Jumped

Hopped, Skipped
and Jumped

