Sid and Ted hopped onto their skateboards and skated to the skate park. It was the hottest part of the day. The sun was at its brightest.

The Highest Point

When the boys arrived, there was a new half pipe at the skatepark. "This looks amazing," said Ted. "Amazing and I think it looks scary," whispered Sid.

The Highest Point

"Face your biggest fear," shouted Ted. Ted launched himself onto the half pipe and climbed up to the ledge at the top of the ramp.

The Highest Point

Standing at the top, Ted started to feel dizzy. He was at the highest point. Everything started to feel very high.

The Highest Point

"Ted, are you OK up there?" called Sid. "I think I'm stuck!" yelled Ted. Ted was frozen with fear. He could not get down.

The Highest Point

"You don't have to drop into the ramp from up there," said Sid. Sid climbed up and sat next to Ted. Once Ted had calmed down, the boys shuffled back down to the base of the ramp.

“The trick is to build up to the highest point by going up and down the ramp. Once we get used to going higher, then we can drop in from up high,” said Sid. “Sid, you are the smartest friend I could ever have,” grinned Ted.
