

Running Late

“Kip, help me! I am running late for school this morning!” said Pip. Pip slept in. Kip slept in. The alarm clock did not go off this morning.

Running Late

Pip raced into the kitchen. She poured herself some cereal. She made herself some toast. Kip raced around the house with excitement.

Running Late

Pip packed her lunchbox. She made herself some sandwiches. She packed some fruit and cookies. She filled up her drink bottle with cold water.

Running Late

Pip packed her backpack. She packed her homework books. She packed her sports gear. She packed her sun hat and sunscreen.

Running Late

Next, she went back upstairs to get changed for school. While she was brushing her teeth, Kip set to work. It was Kip’s turn to help out.

Running Late

Kip added a few items to the backpack. Kip packed the dog lead. Kip packed some fun toys. Kip packed some balls to play fetch with. Kip added to the lunchbox too. Kip packed some delicious dog treats.

Running Late

Running Late

Kip came back downstairs. She picked up her backpack. "This feels heavier than I expected," she said. Pip looked inside the backpack. "Oh no, Kip! You can't come to school today!" said Pip. "Thanks for helping though," she said.

Running Late

Running Late

